February 6, 2007

To Whom It May Concern:

If there's anything that makes us more anxious than talking about sex in our church, it's having a stranger talk about sex in our church. Let me calm your anxiety about Steve Holladay. You won't find a more wholesome presentation than Steve's. He is theologically, biblically, and psychologically sound. His content and style will be appreciated regardless of where one is on the theological spectrum. He is at once humble yet passionate about his mission of reaching out to adolescents whose lives are enslaved to sexual addiction. He is informative and interesting. Steve is an exceptional communicator. I heard him speak for over two hours and could have listened to him for two more. Parents need to hear him. Youth need to hear him. Church staff need to hear him. He is a God-send.
